Geronimo's Destination

WASHINGTON, September 9 — General Drum, acting secretary of war, having been authorized by the president to use his discretion in the treatment of the captured Apaches, has instructed General Miles to remove Geronimo and his band to some secure place of confinement, and so far it is not yet known at the department where they have been taken. It is surmised that the captives have been removed to Fort Bliss, Texas, or some neighboring post. It was not deemed prudent to allow the Indians to remain at Fort Bowie as in event of an escape into the adjacent mountains it would be almost impossible to recapture them. Despite the announcement made in an official telegram that Geronimo's surrender was unconditional the belief is growing at the war department, based on the chief's well earned reputation as a strategist, that he has made some conditions with his captors that will at least prevent his trial in Arizona. In the absence of more definite understanding on the subject at headquarters it is tolerably certain that the Indians will be held at some Texas fort as prisoners of war until President Cleveland returns and expresses his wishes in the matter. It is believed by officers competent to judge that a civil trial of the captives would be a failure, as no evidence of legal weight could be adduced to bring the murders that have been committed home to any of these Indians. Little better results would attend a trial by a military commission for the same reason, and it is felt that the only solution of the question of the treatment of Geronimo and his band would be their removal to a reservation (probably in Florida) where from the surroundings escape would be impossible.

WASHINGTON, September 9 — Atkins, commissioner of Indian affairs, is quoted by the Post as insisting that Geronimo must be put to death. "The president," he says, "will probably acquiesce in whatever proposition General Miles makes for disposing of the murderer. His proposition will be doubtless a court martial, which will not fail to award the death sentence. There is no doubt that the public sentiment of the country demands the death of Geronimo."

EL PASO, Tex., September 9 — Geronimo with 32 hostile Apaches in charge of Captain Lawton, who was mainly instrumental in bringing about their surrender, passed through El Paso at 2 o'clock this morning, on their way east to Fort Marion in Florida, where they will probably be tried by court martial.

Connecticut Republicans

HARTFORD, September 9 — The republican state convention assembled this morning with full attendance. U S Senator O H Platt was chosen presiding officer. Princes C Lowther was nominated for governor on the first ballot. After recess Thomas Clark was nominated for comptroller. The committee on resolutions then reported the platform. It favors tariff upon imported productions of foreign labor, fairly and justly adjusted to protect the interests of American workers without adding to other burdens. It condemns the democratic party for its persistent efforts to overthrow the protective system thereby paralyzing trade. It declares the republican party the friend of the laboring classes, opposes importation of cheap labor from foreign countries under contract, of employment of convict labor in competition with free labor, granting of any more land to railroad or other corporations and selling of lands to syndicates or aliens, favors organization of workingmen for mutual improvement and benefit, and pledges the party to such legislation as will tend to restore harmony between employer and employed, protests against removal from official places of worthy and disabled union soldiers to make room for partisan civilians and confederates, commends the republican senate for its course upon the coast and fortifications bill, and declares that the democratic house was without excuse for refusing to co operate, favors maintenance of gold and silver in friendly relations ...appeal ...by the treasury ...reduction of the national debt.

The Coming Congress

DENVER, September 9 — On Tuesday evening, the 14th, at the chamber of commerce, this city, the American forestry congress will hold its annual meeting. Addresses of welcome will be made by Governor Eaton, Mayor Bates and President Woodbury of the chamber of commerce. Suitable responses will be made by officers of the congress. One object of the meeting will be an attempt to secure more intelligent legislation by congress upon the timber question.

Coal Miners Satisfied

DENVER, September 9 — The manager of the Scranton coal mines to day in an interview stated that the report circulated yesterday that miners had struck for higher wages was not true. All the miners that left the company were a few incompetent men discharged ... the regular force were at work as usual and no dissatisfaction among them.

Alexander's Farewell

TURNSEVERIN, September 9 — Prince Alexander, Stambuloff, Karaveloff and nearly all the Bulgarian ministers arrived here this morning in a yacht. The Roumanian troops received the prince at the landing and lined the route along which he passed to the railway station. Alexander took leave of his ministers and officers here. The farewell was very affecting. A Bulgarian aide de camp will accompany Alexander from here. He will leave Turnseverin this afternoon and will proceed direct to his parental home at Darmstadt.

LOMPALANKA, September 9 — Yesterday when Prince Alexander arrived here on his way out of Bulgaria the streets were covered with triumphal arches. Everything was done to make the prince feel that the populace wished to look upon his departure as transient. The vice president of the assembly in his farewell address to the prince said that the Bulgarians would never forget that to him they owed everything, they had secured as a united nation, and that they would continue to consider him as their ruler, although he departed, and they hoped for his speedy return. The prince in his reply said he was happy when the Bulgarians were content. He would be ever ready to assist Bulgaria when she might be in need. "I hope to see you again," he said in conclusion. School children of Lompalanka strewed Prince Alexander's path through the city with flowers.

The Porte's Note

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 9 — In notes to the powers protesting against any foreign occupation of Bulgaria the porte refers to representations of M Stambuloff and M Radoslavoff made to the Ottoman commission at Sofia with the object of obtaining before Prince Alexander left assurances from the suzerain court and powers that there would be no foreign occupancy of Bulgaria nor any interference with rights of Bulgarian independence whose safe guarding was guaranteed by the treaties. The porte says it consented to Alexander's departure from Bulgaria and has informed the Bulgarian government that there will be no intervention so long as it is legally maintained and Bulgaria fulfills her duties towards her suzerain, and suggests to the powers to favorably consider the step the Bulgarian government has taken because it is important to terminate the abnormal situation in Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia. Moreover, the porte adds, Russia has declared that she had no intention to intervene in Bulgaria if Prince Alexander left the country. In conclusion the porte asks the powers to reply promptly as possible in order to enable Turkey to give the Bulgarian government the assurance required.

The Editors' Excursion

DENVER, September 9 — A Monte Vista, Colo., special to the News says: The State Press association arrived at Monte Vista at 10 o'clock to-day on a special train and were met by Mr C S Fishell, mayor of the town, Mr. I J Bloomfield, C S Aldrich and a delegation of citizens. An elegant trout and game breakfast was served at the Mountain View hotel after which members of the association were driven in carriages to farms managed by the Colorado Land and Loan company. Upon return to the town a display of farm products was visited exhibiting grains and vegetables of all kinds of mammoth proportion. Before the special pulled out for Wagon Wheel Gap an address was made by Mr G. W. Bowman, ex president of the press association, in which was expressed gratification at the wonderful progress shown, and an acknowledgment of the hospitality on the part of the citizens of Monte Vista and the surrounding country. Reply to Mr Bowman was made by Mr I J Bloomfield on behalf of the mayor and citizens. W. E. Pabor, secretary of the press association, moved a vote of thanks to citizens of the town and farmers and the proprietors of the Mountain View hotel for the courtesies shown which was passed unanimously. As the special left for the gap three cheers were given for the thriving enterprising town of Monte Vista and its whole-souled citizens. Surprise was expressed by the visitors at the wonderful progress made, and all were satisfied that San Luis valley was bound to become a remarkable centre of production and prosperity.

Honors to the Prince

VIENNA, September 9 — Prince Alexander was greeted here on behalf of his father by General Lebua. Crowds of people lined the principal station, both on his arrival and departure.

LONDON, September 9 — Alexander's triumphal progress is almost without parallel. At every village in Bulgaria through which he passed peasants were awaiting his coming and he was everywhere greeted with enthusiasm. Similar scenes occurred on the Roumanian shore and in Austria. After the prince had departed from Pesth a hostile demonstration was made before the Russian consulate and the police had to be summoned to disperse the crowds. At Presburg and other places large crowds were assembled to do honor to the prince. A Berlin correspondent of the Times says: The opinion gains ground that the czar's action was dictated more by personal than political motives, that he only wanted to avenge himself on Alexander.

The New York Committee Active

NEW YORK, September 9 — At a meeting of the Charleston relief committee in the chamber of commerce to-day Mr Clyde of the Clyde Charleston line reported that the captain of the Delaware, who was an eye witness to the scenes of suffering and misery during the first four days of the earthquake at Charleston described the misery as touching in the extreme. The captain said that but one half the particulars had been told. General accounts had been published but it did not state the ways in which the people suffered, especially that the earthquake struck at all, rich and poor alike. People well to do, having plenty of stores and supplies on hand, were cut off from their kitchens and cellars by the danger attending an entrance into their dwellings, hence there were delicately nurtured people without food and half naked forced to remain out exposed to the deadly night air for four days. The Delaware lay in the harbor. Her captain had his ship full every night of sufferers. He fed all he could in the day time. The great need now was money to buy supplies of food. The tent committee reported that the acting secretary of the navy had notified them that there was a large amount of canvas on hand in the department which would be at the disposal of the committee. The mayor of Charleston will be notified at once of this fact. Additional subscriptions of $6,012 were reported making up a total amount of $73,702. V. Moore was added to the sub-committee on Charleston sufferers and made chairman.

A Card from Sedgwick

NEW YORK, September 9 — A G Sedgwick, special envoy to Mexico, has the following card in the Evening Post, dated City of Mexico, September 31. "A week ago I went to a ball, and stayed to the end, went home and to bed early. The next morning my friend Guiraud came to call upon me and found me dressing and we went out. All officers and members of the Jockey club, who are the principal people of the city, have signed a letter exonerating me from all improper behavior at any time during the ball. Gentlemen who saw me return from the ball have signed a card that they observed nothing except that I went towards my room. I have Guiraud's statement in writing as to his calling on me in the morning, besides the statement of the hotel manager that no scene or row of any kind took place at the hotel, and also that I went to my room after the ball. No eye witness has ever been produced, and I only know from hearsay what the stories circulated in the United States are. Secretary Bayard has telegraphed me that my personal denial of the scandal is enough. Make any use of this that you think proper."

Russian Ignorance

LONDON, September 9 — Surprise is expressed at St. Petersburg at the statement in Prince Alexander's proclamation that the czar had promised to respect the independence and liberty of Bulgaria. Such promise, it is declared, was not made by the czar. The Standard prints an interview with the Russian representative at Philippopolis in which the latter stated that Prince Dolgorouki would arrive immediately at Sofia as envoy of the czar, that Russia would advocate amnesty, and that the war minister of Bulgaria would be a Russian.

The Irish Desperate

DUBLIN, September 9 — United Ireland says that no power in Great Britain can collect the landlords' tribute in Ireland, "in the face of an organized united and level-headed people." The Irish bishops assembled at Maynooth have sent a memorial to the English government urging the adoption of temporary measures to relieve the Irish tenantry and prevent outrages to which they might resort in simple desperation.

Russia's Task

LONDON, September 9 — The Moscow Vedomosti says that Russia has still to deal with English intrigues and Battenbergism in Bulgaria.

Looking for a Situation

BERLIN, September 9 — The minister of war has received from Prince Alexander a dispatch asking that he be allowed to resume the duties of a German soldier.

Resolutions of Irish Bishops

DUBLIN, September 9 — A conference of Catholic bishops at Maynooth adopted a resolution to day declaring that the Irish people appreciated Gladstone's efforts in behalf of Ireland, and that they will adhere to their demand for home rule, and indignantly deny the assertions that if the Irish people were allowed to govern themselves in domestic affairs the Catholic majority would abuse the power conferred on the Irish parliament and harrass the Protestants of the country. The resolutions further declare that trouble and disorder in both Ireland and Great Britain will not cease until Ireland's right to a legislature her own laws is recognized. Walsh, archbishop of Dublin, Croker, archbishop of Cashel, MacEvilly, archbishop of Tuam, and twenty three bishops were present at the conference when the resolutions were adopted.

Alexander left Bulgarian soil yesterday. His parting words indicate that in certain contingencies he would take up the sceptre again. A war will have to be fought and the Russian bear's claws must be trimmed before his recall.

General Bragg is having considerable trouble in his district. The congressional convention has been in session eight days, and the deadlock is stubbornly maintained on both sides. The probabilities are that he will not return to congress.

There is no doubt about how the prelates of Ireland stand on the home rule question. The resolutions adopted yesterday by three archbishops and twenty three bishops might well have been written by a member of the Irish league.

Prof. Proctor says that earthquakes are assurances that the earth is not near death that hundreds of thousands of years will still pass before the end is seen in the steady disintegration and removal of the land without renovation or renewal by the action of subterranean forces.

Amid the defeats of English sporting men on this side of the water this summer they can find a grain of comfort in the result of the bicycle race at Hartford yesterday. An English contestant not only won the race but clipped a second from the record, which had previously been held by an American.

Silver reached 99½ yesterday. The reasons for the extraordinary rise made in the last week have not been given to the public, but if the Jews of Threadneedle street in London continue to offer this sum for an ounce of silver many mining camps of Colorado will proceed to inaugurate a boom. The treasury, however, will probably think the price too high and will refuse to make purchases of bullion for a while.

The Omaha Republican says: "The new public printer, Mr. Benedict, got his experience in the business as proprietor of a small country journal up in New York state, where the position compelled a man to mould public opinion at so much per mould, payable in cord wood, dried apples or other works of art, write all the vendue bills for the farmers and sweep out the office once a year. With these broad experiences in statesmanship to guide him, Mr. Benedict ought to edit his new office in a way that would leave nothing to be desired."

The Japanese minister of naval affairs, who has been making an extensive tour for the purpose of gathering ideas to increase the efficiency of the force of his nation, has concluded his study in this country. He considers our navy small when the coast to be protected is taken into consideration, but thinks it progressive and well managed. He recognizes the fact that we have slept through a stage in ship building but comments on it with the delicacy of a diplomat when he says we are afforded the advantages of the latest inventions.

Envoy Sedgwick has sent a card to the Evening Post of New York, which is printed in our telegraph report this morning, intended to deny reports of his scandalous behavior at the ball recently given by the Jockey club at the City of Mexico. He has not improved matters by this move. A lawyer and a journalist should have been able to make a better case. His hosts, as might have been expected, have signed a paper exonerating him from improper behavior at the ball. He also has a document containing the testimony of members who saw nothing wrong in his conduct but were able to see that he went in the direction of his room. But he makes no attempt to explain how he lost his hat.

PERSONAL

The Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent, founder of the Chautauqua circles is going to Europe for the good of his health.

Billy Moloney the fugitive clerk of the New York boodle board of aldermen sits weeping across the water because he dare not return to his dear America.

Victorin Schilling the runaway wife of the coachman, is now said to be luxuriating at Rye a village on Long Island Sound instead of pining in a Montreal convent.

Owing to the injury sustained by his daughter while driving with Senator Evarts recently Justice Stanley Matthews says the Washington Star will hasten his return from Europe.

Mrs. Mackay, who has been so successful in London society, and whose entertainments at Lowe's have been the talk of English people will in a week or so leave the Isle of Wight for Switzerland.

At a marble yard in Pittsfield Mass. may be seen a huge oblong block on which are carved the names "Henry Wilson Shaw" and "Josh Billings." It will presently be placed over the quaint philosopher's grave at Lanesborough.

Mrs. Alice D. Le Plongeon wife of the eminent explorer of Yucatan and herself a well known writer and lecturer has offered to give lectures in New York city and Brooklyn for the benefit of the Charleston earthquake sufferers.

Vice Admiral Rowan who commanded the ironsides off Charleston during the war says that the bombardment of that city did no damage at all compared to that inflicted by the earthquake. Pains were taken during the bombardment to spare the venerable St. Michael's church which is now in ruins.

Mary Anderson has leased a place at Tunbridge Wells and will go there to live very soon. She is now living in London. She will go to Rome this winter. It was her intention to take a two years rest, but she has grown so strong this summer that she will probably shorten her vacation. Dr. Griffin recently said that Miss Anderson could now count on clearing $75,000 a year whenever she plays. Her fortune he said further, was invested in America.

A Strange Sight in Charleston

From the Charleston News and Courier

After the fire on King street broke out Tuesday night, when the whole of the lower ward housetops were illuminated a strange thing was seen. On the top of the ruins of the porch of the Main station was seen a cross, the emblem of Christianity, which shone with resplendent brightness. There never was a cross on the building as far as known, and the appearance of this one soon attracted attention as it stood out of the ruins. A policeman—it is needless to say that he was an Irishman—pointed to it and said, as he uncovered his head "It is that that saved us!" The escape of the policemen who were not on duty is certainly remarkable. There were thirty men sleeping in the upper story of the building, which together with the porch, is a complete wreck.

She Could Stand It

Washington Capital

An amusing little incident recently occurred to a well known Washington man who had been more abundantly blessed by nature in the matter of brains than with mere facial beauty. The young fellow, who is a great admirer of the fair sex, has been spending the season at the White Sulphur springs. About a week since, while promenading the long portico about the hotel in company with a pretty girl, he paused for a moment before a group of children. Noticing that his companion singled out one of the little ones upon whom to bestow a caress he leaned forward with the gallant request that he too would be favored with the privilege of bestowing a kiss. The little mold of three summers looked at him very earnestly for a moment, as though to take in to the fullest extent his unhandsome physiognomy. Then, with a long sigh for the coming ordeal, she put up her mouth reluctantly, remarking "Yes, I'll kiss you. I kissed a dog once!"

He Met Billy

Albany Journal

Lord Lonsdale who is coming to this country as manager of Miss Violet Cameron and her troupe, has an income of $200,000, and can get up to be an adept with the gloves. Two or three years ago his lordship got the notion that like every Briton he must learn "how to use his hands." He accordingly hired himself to the residence of a notorious pugilist in Whitechapel and began boxing lessons. His lordship fell well for his instruction but tired of his trainers and his slowness in learning, his teacher finally dismissed him with the assurance, which brought forth an extra £5 note that he was "now good for any man in London but my brother Billy." Passing down the narrow alley from the pugilist's house and proud of the compliment, Lonsdale went out of his way to shoulder a burly foot passenger off the sidewalk. The insult brought forth nothing but a mild mannered rebuke until it was repeated when the stranger turned and in three minutes Lonsdale gathered together what there was of himself and his scattered raiment on the sidewalk, and pathetically inquired how it all happened. "Why, Jo told me not ten minutes ago that I was good for any man in London." "Did he say you could thrash his brother Billy?" "No." "Well, I am his brother Billy!" Since he has met "Billy" his lordship is prepared to use his fists whenever occasion presents itself.

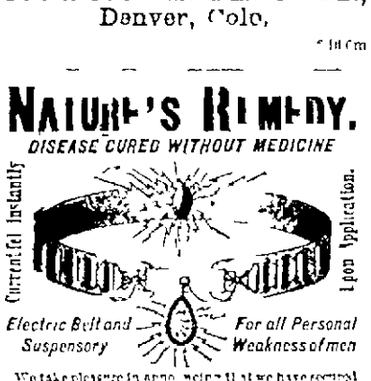
NATURE'S REMEDY.
DISEASE CURED WITHOUT MEDICINE



We take pleasure in announcing that we have received the agency for the celebrated Dr. Clark's Electro Magnetic Belt and Suspensory, which for the last year has been so rapidly growing into public favor, and which has become the leading Electric Belt of the day. We do not hesitate to say that it is the most powerful Electric Belt ever offered to the public, and we are willing to back our assertion by a forfeit of $1,000 to any one who will produce a Belt that will compare with it in power. We also have the Dr. Clark Electric Suspensory, which is the grand nerve energizer of the body and also a sure cure for those weak and disordered parts, thus giving every part of the body and mind perfect vigor. Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality, Lack of Energy, Impotence, Sexual Organs Lost, General Illhealth, Etc., yield to the Suspensory for men free with every Belt.

We take the liberty to guarantee that every buyer of an Electric Belt will be THE BEST MADE, and that if referred to the interest of parties to call and see them before buying, and to test them for themselves, that old style professors, quacks and impostors, agents and hindered traders in Western Electric Belts, will be easily convinced that the Clark Belt and Suspensory are the most convenient to wear of any other. TO MEN suffering from any personal weakness or nervous debility, and who lack all the energy and vitality which makes life a pleasure, we will be glad to give full particulars in regard to what Electricity can do for them. Sealed Illustrated and explanatory pamphlet, with full particulars, mailed free. By mail, enclosed, one dollar.

NEW YORK, September 9 Money on call easy at 4 to 6, closing 4 prime paper 4 to 5, sterling exchange quiet firm, 4 81½ for sixty day bills, 4 84½ for demand, governments dull but firm The yacht race again drew a large proportion of the operators on the street away and as a consequence to-day's stock market was dull and almost featureless, trading being confined to some ten or twelve stocks which furnished over three quarters of the day's business The most important item of the day was the advance in price of silver Pacific coast prices at the opening were irregular but showed only slight changes from closing figures of last evening, except in the case of Kansas & Texas, which was up ½, and Missouri Pacific which was ½ lower Except in the stocks above mentioned the market fluctuated within a narrow range and continued steady throughout the entire day, but sagged a little in the last hour and closed barely steady at close to opening figures.

Mail and Express says The morning stock market to day, it was dull Standard Consolidated Pacific 8 Plymouth 10, Belcher 1 65 to 1 60 Eureka Consolidated 3 65, Bodie 2 70 California and Virginia 2 55, Belle Isle 1, Ontario

A Reporter's Last "Scoop"

St Paul Pioneer Press

It is not many years ago that Tony B—, the attache of a central Iowa paper, now defunct, rode out from a southern Iowa city, one fine morning perched daringly on the brake of a flat car that was attached to a "wild freight" and loaded with iron rails. He was, like other reporters, made up of vice and virtues—only the first seen by the world, the latter best known to his intimate friends He had been in newspaper work for about six years, was thoroughly capable, and scored more "scoops" than were ever recorded against him This in the eyes of the city editor, insured his entrance into paradise

To make the story short, forty miles out from its starting point the "wild" freight, with a leap of madness and a terrible crash, went through a bridge, down sixty feet, and Tony sitting on the brake-beam It was over in an instant Such things don't wait for time to catch up with them When the conductor of the train (the only one uninjured) crawled out of the wreck his eyes fell first on Tony, lying across the side of a dismantled box car on his chest a heavy rail, his legs crushed and dying Beyond him lay a dead brakeman, the engineer was buried under his machine and by a large boulder was the fireman with a broken back Tony was conscious now the conductor knelt down asked for paper and pencil They were found in his pocket Unable to write himself, he dictated this briefly, ordering the men who had come up to let him alone

C E , Managing Editor Star, Iowa

Train through bridge at Was on board and am hurt. Will send full particulars at once T B

A farmer was secured who carried it to the nearest station Then this boy, true to his duty and not allowing himself to die before death suffering frightful agony, and while willing hands sought in vain to release him from his position dictated the "special" of 1500 words to his paper What he suffered no one can ever know It was with difficulty that he could breathe Every gasp cost him a wrench of agony But he held death back down to the last few lines The killed were and no one else, with the name of "Tony B— reporter" As he ended that his eyes filled with tears and he looked up wistfully to the conductor, who had written the telegram for him and who himself could not keep his tears back "Tell my mother," said Tony that I did my duty and, boys, rush that over the wires fast This is a scoop" It went over the wires all right, and it was a "scoop" but before it was printed Tony was dead

The English Matron Abroad

The St James Gazette

The Englishman on his travels is the standing butt of the witty Parisian, but the English woman at least seems to be quite a match for the average Frenchman A lady of interesting appearance called the other morning on a jeweller in Paris, and after purchasing a brooch presented a bank note in payment for which she received the change and forgot to carry it away The French jeweler thought very deeply this time Fogg's Fine Arts for English bank notes especially when they have not that to pay for them at the current rate of exchange So the jeweller gallantly stepped out and in his banner to get the two hundred and fifty and odd francs And when he arrived the banker pointed out that the note was—not a forgery, but a draft on the Bank of Elysia [illegible] dated nearly fifty years back and signed by one Fogg, on an institution styled the Bank of Lyonnaise, which entitled the holder to some pictures It is difficult not to admire the darling coolness of the woman who could try such a successful experiment in a big city though one may share in the horror of the French papers, and reiterate their warning to shop keepers to be on their guard against this daughter of Albion

The Doubtful Dog

New Orleans Times Democrat

The fact that the dog ate the president's bait on Saturday, as telegraphed from the Lake Saranac fishing ground recalls a similar experience on the part of a journalist and a criminal judge of this city, some years ago at Bay St Louis Miss The two sat out one morning after breakfast to the end of one of the bathing piers to try the fascinating diversions of rod and reel In one basket they carried a little bait for the fish, and in another a little more for themselves They set their two baskets behind them on the line of the long and narrow wharf, dropped their lines into the water and dangled their legs over the end of the pier waiting for a bite They had waited about an hour, when the judge felt a bite, landed a large croaker on the wharf behind him He turned just in time to see the tail of his hard sapper down the throat of a big jawed savage looking bulldog The judge and the journalist entertained no bill of exceptions in the case, as the dog looked like he had come there on important business and wouldn't stand any foolin. So they sat still and will the dog overboard at the first symptom of a further canine invasion

The dog regarded the anglers a moment with silent contempt, then [illegible] and devoured all the bait in the baskets Next he turned his attention to the lunch basket and literally cleaned up its solid refreshments He then started to walk [illegible] away, as the suspensive hearts began to beat more freely but turning as if he had forgotten something, he again went to the lunch basket and scratching among the empty paper shavings he fished out a whisky bottle from its depths and rolling it out on the wharf let its neck break in the fall The bulldog stopped lifted his head and gave the amateur Waltonians a long and settled look of scorn then he pointed out his paws at the broken bottle as if protesting against the use of any more whisky by the party that day and growling a growl he took and her knot in his tightly curled tail and trotted off in a dignified manner, as if he had fish to fry somewhere else

He Went Round

Youth's Companion

Before Bismarck constructed the map of Europe, and made a united Germany, a dozen little principalities used to annoy travelers by stopping them at their frontiers, until they had satisfied the custom house demands

A Yankee once showed his characteristic cleverness by outfranking one of these little "countries" He had gone to Europe to confirm his opinion that in the United States the lakes were larger, the mountains higher the rivers deeper, the thunder louder, and the lightning sharper than could be found in all Europe His carriage was stopped at the frontier of a petty princes country The Herr Ober, controller at the custom house, came forward, and, much to his indignation was received in a nonchalant way The Yankee was ungentlemanly enough not to get out of his carriage, or even to take off his hat The Herr Ober sharply demanded the keys of the tourist's trunks, which his subordinates began handling roughly

"Here, hands off!" shouted the Yankee "I didn't come from the United States of America to be controlled by you Put those trunks back I'm in no hurry, and don't care for losing a day You're a pretty, you're only a sport I take care of you"

The Chicago Comic Opera company is playing a very successful engagement in Denver this week The Daily Times of that city has the following to say of their performance "The Mikado" has, as every one knows, come to be regarded as something of a "chestnut," but chestnut though it be, it certainly yet possesses splendid drawing qualities a fact which was never more clearly demonstrated than at the Tabor opera house last evening Often as this opera has been given in Denver during the past year it drew an excellent audience last night to witness its presentation by the Chicago Opera company This company is not very large nor did it boast no great stars, but it possesses the great merit of carrying no "sticks." The women are all passably good looking, and some of them are decidedly handsome They sing well without exception and set the parts assigned with captivating grace The male casts are also well made and the male chorus is for its number strong

Several months ago the officers of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Pacific Express companies in this city were consolidated and Mr John F Pearce, agent of the latter corporation, was made agent of both companies Yesterday Mr S A Walker, assistant superintendent of the Denver & Rio Grande Express company, came down from Denver and gave notice of the withdrawal of the D & R G Express company from the Pacific Express company He secured a portion of the building occupied by Bacon & Carr on Pike's Peak avenue for an office and Mr D T Cuthbert was appointed agent of the company in this city. Mr. Cuthbert was connected with Mr O Palmer in the management of the business of the D & R G Express company in this city before the late consolidation was effected and is therefore thoroughly conversant with the duties of his position He is now prepared to attend to all business connected with his position, and will endeavor to give the patrons of the company all the satisfaction within his power Mr John F Pearce will continue to act as agent of the Pacific Express company in this city.
